

Nyc rise in homelessness

while the number of homeless people is somewhat sketchy, the numbers have increase over the recent years. they are either living on the streets, in abandon places, or in their cars.

there are many factors that play a role into why there's a rise in homelessness,while there are interior factors on a individual level (low paying job, poor money management, etc.), but most come from exterior factors.

causes for homelessness:
housing cost
increasing
higher than
people's
income can
handle

food prices
increase
result in less food on
the table

certain changes
to livelihood
results in
mental
problems

all those came with the pandemic

resulting in a rise in homelessness

even though there are programs and shelters for them most would rather be on the street, saying the living conditions are worst at shelters. so giving them a better living space is the best directing to go as a bad home isn't a home worth living.

sources: <https://theweek.com/briefing/1013082/living-on-the-streets>